We wish to thank the many organizations that have contributed to making this seminar possible. First, our two home institutions, Università degli Studi Roma Tre and the John D. Calandra Italian American Institute, Queens College, The City University of New York, have made it possible for us to work on the notion of an Italian diaspora summer seminar and put it into effect.

None of this could be possible without substantial support. Italian American organizations and colleges and universities have offered the opportunity in the form of fellowships for many of the participants to attend this year. This is no small deed, to be sure. Thus, we offer a heartfelt thanks to the numerous organizations that have contributed to this year's seminar.

Queens College President Frank Wu, the former Rector of Roma Tre University Luca Pietromarchi, and the Director of the Department of Foreign Languages, Literatures, and Cultures Giorgio De Marchis have offered their unmitigated support of this seminar, an historical understanding within the greater realm of Italian-American and Italian Diaspora studies.

Un caloroso grazie a tutti quanti!

FACULTY

All courses are taught by leading scholars in the field, who, besides their scholarship, are also part of editorial boards of major journals (Italian American Review, Letterature d'America, Voices in Italian Americana) and book series (Bordighera Press, Fairleigh Dickinson University Press, Fordham University Press, Franco Cesati Editore, John D. Calandra Italian American Institute, SUNY Press) both in the United States and in Italy.

DAVID ALIANO is Associate Professor of History and Italian at the College of Mount Saint Vincent in New York City and is the founding director of its B.A. program in Italian and Italian Diaspora Studies. He is the Editor of the Italian American Review, the peer-reviewed journal of the John D. Calandra Italian American Institute and is on the Advisory Board of H-TransItalian Studies. He holds a PhD in History from the Graduate Center of the City University of New York. His areas of research include Modern Italy and Latin America; Italian transnational and comparative studies; National and ethnic identities; and Italian Fascism and anti-Fascism. He is the author of Mussolini's National Project in Argentina (Fairleigh Dickinson University Press, 2012), which was awarded the annual book award of the Association for Ethnic Studies. He has also published widely on Italian emigration to other parts of the Americas as well as on notions of citizenship and the Italian vote abroad. His most recently published chapters appear in Philosophy, Travel, and Place: Being in Transit (Palgrave, 2018) and in Italy and the Military: Cultural Perspectives from Unification to Contemporary Italy (Palgrave, 2020). His current book project examines American travel encounters with Italy's changing landscape from the interwar years through the economic miracle.

DONNA CHIRICO is Professor of Psychology, York College/CUNY, and Resident Faculty, The John D. Calandra Italian American Institute, Queens College/CUNY. Her field research is Ladakh, India studying moral and spiritual development constitutes the foundation for her ongoing research program exploring the nature of imagination as it relates to aspects of psychological development. One implication is the role of the imaginative process in educational attainment among Americans of Italian descent. The objective of this work is to understand the function of esoteric or transcendent imagination in personal development, attainment of valued goals, and psychological well-being. Related to this, matters of personal identity formation are explored to understand how ethnic identity contributes to the psychological development of the self, specifically within the Italian Diaspora. She has published numerous papers on these topics and is a sought-after speaker on these matters vital to the Italian diaspora.

ROBERTO DOLCI is Associate Professor of Educational Linguistics at the University for Foreigners in Perugia. He is also visiting Scholar at the John D. Calandra Italian American Institute, Queens College, CUNY. His main research interests are plurilingualism, pluriculturalism and language policies. He has extensively written on Educational Linguistics and Teacher Education. With Anthony Julian Tamburri he has co-edited Why Study Italian: Diverse Perspectives on a Theme (2013) and Intercomprehension and Plurilingualism. Assets for Italian Language in the USA (2015), both published by the John D. Calandra Italian American Institute. He is the author of Il Giornalino di Preziosi. La lingua Italiana tra promozione e propaganda nella New York degli anni '30 e '40 (Franco Cesati Editore, 2018); his most recent book is The Advanced Placement Program in Italian: History and Analysis. Transactions 5 (John D. Calandra Italian American Institute, 2023). He is also co-editor of the peer-review journal, TILCA (Teaching Italian Language and Culture Annual).

DANIELE FIORENTINO is Professor of U.S. History and Chair of the Department of Political Sciences at the Roma Tre University in Italy. He is also director of CISPEA (The Italian Center for the Study of Euro-American History and Politics) and sits in the Board of the Center for American Studies in Rome. He serves on the editorial board of “American Studies with American Studies International.” He was a Fulbright student and scholar at the University of Kansas, at the National Archives, and the Smithsonian Institution in Washington, DC. Currently, he is the chief editor of a series on the United States and the process of Italian unification published by the Center for American Studies of which he was the director between 1995 and 2002. His most recent volume is: Gli Stati Uniti e il Risorgimento d'Italia, 1848-1901 (2013; The United States and the Italian Risorgimento, 1848-1901). He taught for many years at the University of Macerata and managed American university programs in Italy. A specialist of the relations between the United States and Italy in the 19th and early 20th centuries, he has also written extensively about American Indian history and culture. Fields of interest include: 19th century U.S. History and culture, U.S.-European Relations, Multiculturalism, Native American Studies.

FRED GARDAPHÉ is Distinguished Professor of English and Italian American Studies at Queens College and the John D. Calandra Italian American Institute. He is director of the Italian/American Studies Programs at Queens College. With Paul Giordano and Anthony Julian Tamburri, he is co-founding, co-editor of Bordighera Press, with, publisher of VIA: Voices in Italian Americana, and editor of the Italian/American Culture Series of SUNY Press.

JOSEPH SCIORRA is Director of Academic and Cultural Programs at Queens College's John D. Calandra Italian American Institute. He received his PhD from the Department of Folklore and Folklife at the University of Pennsylvania. As a folklorist, Joseph has conducted ethnographic research with numerous New York City communities, in particular Italian Americans, implementing public programming such as museum exhibitions, concert series, and video documentaries, as well as publishing on religious practices, material culture, and vernacular music, among other topics. He was the editor (2011-2016) of the social science and cultural studies journal Italian American Review and of Italian Folk: Vernacular Culture in Italian-American Lives (Fordham UP, 2010), co-editor of Embroidered Stories: Interpreting Women's Domestic Needlework from the Italian Diaspora (UP of Mississippi, 2014) and Graces Received: Painted and Metal Ex-votos from Italy (Calandra Institute, 2012). Sciorra is the author of R.I.P.: Memorial Wall Art (Henry Holt & Co., 1994; Thames & Hudson, 2002) and Built with Faith: Italian American Imagination and Catholic Material Culture in New York City (U Tennessee P, 2015). Together with Laura E. Ruberto he has co-edited New Italian Migrations to the United States. Vol. 1: Politics and History since 1945 (U Illinois P, 2017) and New Italian Migrations to the United States. Vol. 2: Art and Culture since 1945 (U Illinois P, 2017).

ANTHONY JULIAN TAMBURRI is Dean of the John D. Calandra Italian American Institute (Queens College, CUNY) and Distinguished Professor of European Languages and Literatures. He is past president of the Italian American Studies Association and of the American Association of Teachers of Italian. His authored books on Italian/American studies include Una semiotica dell'etnicità: nuove segnalature per la letteratura italiano/americana (Cesati, 2010); Re-viewing Italian Americana: Generalities and Specificities on Cinema (Bordighera, 2011); and Re-reading Italian Americana:

Specificities and Generalities on Literature and Criticism (Fairleigh Dickinson UP, 2014). His book on Italian writing in the U.S. is Un bi-culturalismo negato: la letteratura "italiana" negli Stati Uniti (Cesati, 2018). Also recent are: The Columbus Affair: Imperatives for an Italian/ American Agenda (Casa Lago, 2021); Signing Italian/ American Cinema: A More Focused Look (Ovunque Siamo Press, 2021); and A Politics of [Self-]Omission: The Italian/ American Challenge in a Post-George Floyd Age (Aracne, 2022). He is co-editor, with Robert Viscusi and James Periconi, of the English version of Italoamericana: The Literature of the Great Migration, 1880-1943 (Fordham UP, 2014), Francesco Durante, ed; and with Giordano and Gardaphé, From The Margin: Writings in Italian Americana (Purdue UP, 1991/2000). He is the director of the Italian Studies Series for Fairleigh Dickinson University Press; he is also executive producer of Italics, produced in collaboration with CUNY TV.

SABRINA VELLUCCI is Associate Professor of Anglo-American Literature at Roma Tre University. Her research interests focus mainly on Italian/American literature and culture, women's writing, cinema, and intermediality. She is the author of New Girls. Adolescenti nella cultura statunitense, 1865-1890 (Loffredo, 2008), and has co-edited, among others, Re-Mapping Italian America: Places, Cultures, Identities (Bordighera Press, 2018) and Circolazione di persone e di idee. Integrazione ed esclusione tra Europa e Americhe (Bordighera Press, 2020). She has published essays on, among others, Carole Maso, Louise DeSalvo, Sandra M. Gilbert, Kym Ragusa, Nancy Savoca, Marylou and Jerome Bongiorno, Don DeLillo, Rudolph Valentino. Since 2004, she has been Assistant Editor of the international quarterly Letterature d'America. She directs the Seminar on American Literature, History and Culture of the Center for American Studies in Rome and is Vice President of the Italian Association for North-American Studies (AISNA). She is the recipient of the Romeyn Robert and Ugucione Sorbello Fellowship (2021) and Andrew W. Mellon Foundation Fellow at The Huntington Library (2022).

Working from an interdisciplinary standpoint and taking as basis the latest developments in the field, the essays in this volume are meant as a contribution to the ongoing, collective effort at expanding and updating knowledge concerning Italian/American literature, cinema, and culture in their various articulations. They explore the effects that the texts' imaginary—often linked to the idea of space, mobility, and change—produces on our understanding of Italian/American culture. This knowledge can help construct a new narrative of Italian/American life, as well as provide a more complex understanding of American history and culture in a transnational context.

Seminario Il gruppo di studiosi che si è riunito nelle aule della Scuola di Lettere, Filosofia e Lingue

La Diaspora Italiana tra storia e cinema Tamburri e il dibattito con 16 accademici

La Diaspora Italiana, tra storia, letteratura, cinema, folclore. A Roma un gruppo di sedici tra accademici e studenti con PhD arrivati da tutto il mondo, si è riunito nelle aule della Scuola di Lettere, Filosofia e Lingue dell'Università degli Studi Roma Tre per approfondire i contorni di quel processo migratorio che coinvolse dalla fine dell' '800 alla metà del '900 milioni di italiani diretti verso Stati Uniti, Germania, Svizzera, Francia.

Proprio ieri, l'ultima giornata di incontri (e l'arrivederci al prossimo anno, sempre nella Capitale). «Sono state tre settimane intense» ha commentato Anthony Julian Tamburri, a capo del Calandra Italian American Institute (Queens College, CUNY): «Siamo a Roma Tre innanzitutto perché l'Università ha una lunga tradizione di Studi Americani, e la nostra co-direttrice, Sabrina Vellucci, è fra i migliori studiosi di letteratura italiano/americana (si legga, "italoamericana"). Inoltre, nel 2018 Roma è il fulcro di tutte le discussioni in merito alla diaspora italiana, sia quella uscente che quella entrante».

Nel suo corso «Italian American Film» Tamburri ha affrontato il tema partendo dalla vi-sione di capolavori come «The Godfather» di Coppola, «Mean Streets» di Scorsese, «True Love» di Nancy Savoca: dopo un primo intervento sulla struttura e sulla semiotica, la discussione delle tematiche sociali rappresentate nella pellicola.

«Il seminario ha accolto una serie di esperti studiosi di queste discipline, che hanno avuto l'opportunità di approfondire i loro progetti di ricerca e perfezionare la loro didattica per insegnare in corsi di livello universitario» ha spiegato il terzo direttore del programma Fred Gardaphé (Calandra Italian American Institute).

Insieme agli altri docenti Mary Jo Bona, Nancy Carnevale, Laura Ruberto, Joseph Sciorra, si sono confrontati nell'arco dei 21 giorni con John M. Ryan (University of Northern Colorado), Charlotte Fressilli (Washington University), Antonia Cucchiara (The New School) e il romano Tommaso Caiazza, per citare alcuni degli iscritti.

In agenda anche i nodi dell'attualità, con un focus sulle nuove migrazioni, dalla 'fuga di cervelli' alle doppie immigrazioni.
